NEWS FROM THE TIMBERZOO FEB - MARCH 2005

Revised Timber Standards for bushfire-prone areas provide more reasons to choose Timberzoo's Wharfdeck over treated pine or other non-durable decking timbers. Because Wharfdeck consists of Blackbutt and Spotted Gum timbers only, it satisfys the new definitions in AS 3959-(1999) for untreated timber which can be classified as fire-retardant-treated timber. As well it exceeds the minimum thickness for this definition (18mm) by a long way. Many parts of the Surfcoast and Otways are bushfire-prone and the building trend in recent years has been to bigger decked or paved outdoor areas.

Although the revised Standard applies to high bushfire attack category only, Wharfdeck is a sensible option on sites which are medium risk category.

Major benefits of Wharfdeck
Suitability in coastal environments and bushfire-prone sites.
Durability Class 2 Blackbutt & Spotted Gum 140x32mm pencil-rounded edges.
Available in set lengths 3.0m to 4.5m (no shorts).
Unbeatable looks in a broad space - decks, paths, pool surrounds, jetties.

NEW WEBSITE !!
Timberzoo has recently launched its new website at
www. timberzoo.com.au
Detailed timber information, prices and a current stocklist are online.

Recycled Stringybark decking 75x19mm (mixed Class 2 & 3 species) Packs are good length with very few shorts and are graded to decking standard. Finished packs are in stock at time of writing but we have only just caught up with demand. Sample request via website $3.65/lm or $49.00/m2.

Recycled Messmate overlay 80x12mm. Currently 100s of square metres of this product in stock at $44.00/m2. A truly green option because you use far less volume of timber for the same area of flooring….and the 19mm is installed as overlay nowadays as well.
