NEWS FROM THE TIMBERZOO OCTOBER - NOVEMBER 2006

Ironbark Posts

From the bones of a Queensland rail bridge cometh these dark ironbark lovelies with chiselled face and solid, weathered form. They include 250x200mm posts @ 3.0m to 3.3m and 250x160mm beam up to 4.5m. Perfect dimensions, ideal lengths and sullen, brooding mass. Email the Timberzoo and request images (zoo@alphalink.com.au) See whether they will suit your current project. These are high durability timbers - many retaining their original strength ratings - and would give a lifetime of service in a coastal environment.

Bridge Timbers

With a different look are stocks of stringybark and box bearers from an East Gippsland road bridge - no decking boards included, so they are macadam-free! The occasional strings of tar will not dampen buyers' enthusiasm for these aged and silvered beams. End section is a mite variable but approximates 220x180mm in dimension, 3.5m to 5.5m in length. Get in early for a couple of monster 420x160mm bearers. We receive a regular trickle of retired Gippsland bridges - courtesy of an old mate - and past customers of these will be interested to hear that the current crop is the best yet!

Other sizes: 300x150mm	$90.00/m
220x180mm	$75.00/m
420x160mm	$150.00/m

Timberzoo has healthy stocks of previously-advertised post including...

Recycled Ironbark 300x300 and 300x250mm. Images of these can be seen on the website

Specials

Here's a recycled product that has been popular on ebay for us. I'd have sold out if more folk knew of its whereabouts. Rustic Messmate lining board - technically a downgrade due to planer skip - in 110x15mm. Two clean edges, one clean face - and a face that is missed or skipped due to being slightly undersized. But it is a face with loads of interest.

Makes great ceiling lining - verandah ceilings, lining above exposed rafters and - most popular of all - in workshops. Just the right amount of ambiance for Dad's shed. You can feel the serenity. Rustic messmate lining also suits kitchen cupboards, shop counters, bulkheads and feature walls. Only $22.00 per m<sup>2</sup> in pack price (30m<sup>2</sup>). Loose board orders 24 hrs in advance.
